President's Speech

At the 2025 Nassara Women Initiative Multipurpose Cooperative Society Conference

Theme: Stronger Together

Distinguished guests, dear sisters, and members of the Nassara Women Initiative Multipurpose Cooperative Society,

With a heart full of gratitude and joy, I welcome you all to this remarkable gathering, our 2025 Conference, beautifully themed "Stronger Together."

This year's conference holds special significance because it also marks our 11th year anniversary eleven years of shared dreams, resilience, and remarkable achievements. Eleven years of women coming together, supporting one another, and proving that when women unite, we build legacies that time cannot erase.

From our humble beginnings to the thriving network we have today, Nassara has remained a beacon of empowerment, entrepreneurship, and sisterhood. Together, we have created a cooperative that uplifts women, nurtures dreams, and turns potential into power.

www.nassarawimcs.org

We have stood with one another in the good times and the hard times. Trained and kept retraining, learning, unlearn, and relearning. Broaden our horizon, support financially, psychologically, emotionally, and spiritually. Given back to the society and environment where we operate. Uplift, upscale businesses and individuals both within and around the Cooperative social enterprise ecosystem.

As we celebrate this milestone, we also cast our eyes toward the future, a future filled with growth, expansion, and greater societal influence. I see a Nassara where our membership multiplies, our impact deepens, and our collective voice continues to shape communities and policies that advance women's success.

We envision a cooperative that every woman will love to belong to, a home of opportunity, mentorship, and shared prosperity. We are not just a cooperative; we are a movement of purpose-driven women, rising stronger, bolder, and more united than ever.

Let us continue to stand hand in hand, fuel one another's dreams, and build a legacy that will outlive us. Because truly, we are stronger together.

Thank you, and God bless Nassara Women Initiative Multipurpose Cooperative Society.

Bunmi Wisdom Elewoyori
NWIMCS's President

HOW UNITY AMONG WOMEN CREATES LASTING STRUCTURES OF EMPOWERMENT

The power of Sisterhood cannot be discussed without first defining who a sister is and what makes one a sister.

A sister is a biological female who beyond being born with female reproductive organs is a person wired with a female brain that understands the roles, ethics, responsibilities and pain of being female, this will make the person relate to you woman to woman.

A sister is not necessarily your blood relative but someone who has your back and it shouldn't be confused with feminism. A sister is someone who laughs, cries with you and is your support system while sisterhood is solidarity among women, It can be a professional group, religious, social group or organization like ours.

This bond of sisterhood in creating Unity among women cannot be overemphasized. We spend bulk of our active day time of 9 -to -5 outside our homes, we are either in the office, market or other places where we earn our daily bread and even if we are full time house wives we still need each other for either financial, spiritual or moral support and sometimes you just need someone to be there for you even without saying a word, we all need that sister who will "show you the way", be willing to motivate you, a sister who you can ask or ask you questions, who is willing to help or be helped, who will fight for you or simply be with you in your good and not so good times.

Women need to Unite themselves to form structures that cannot be shaken, this unity will help them support each other, connect with each other, network, mentor, counsel, guide and guard each other on issues that go beyond family life, work and entrepreneurship.

Just as our theme for this year's conference says " STRONGER TOGETHER " we are indeed stronger together, what one person can achieve, two or more people will achieve much more. Knowledge, ideas, business opportunities can be shared if you relate with each other, no one should be an island, a problem shared with the right person is a problem solved.

Go out, mingle with like minded people to help you succeed and be a formidable force, the support system you have can give you what money cannot buy.

ZUWAIRA MATANKARI BECKLEY Ph.D

The Power of Sisterhood

There is something profoundly beautiful about women standing together a bond that transcends friendship, rooted in shared purpose, mutual strength, and unwavering love. This is the power of sisterhood.

At Nassara Women Initiative Multipurpose Cooperative Society, sisterhood is more than just a concept; it is our way of life. It is the force that binds us, the fuel that drives our vision, and the light that guides our collective journey. We believe that when women come together to dream, to build, to lift one another, miracles happen. Businesses are born, families are strengthened, and communities are transformed.

Sisterhood means being each other's keeper, celebrating one another's victories, standing strong in seasons of trial, and reminding each other that no woman walks alone. It is the gentle voice that says, "You can rise again." It is the collective hand that wipes away tears, the shared laughter that heals the soul, and the unity that breaks barriers.

The Power of Sisterhood brings about collaboration, interdependence, sustainability, networking, community, collective movement, partnership, and shared system.

Through our cooperative, we have seen women rediscover their potential, grow their enterprises, and embrace the beauty of empowerment. Together, we have built not just a network but a family one defined by trust, faith, and the unyielding belief that every woman carries within her the seed of greatness.

As we continue to journey together, we remain committed to nurturing this bond of sisterhood, creating a safe space for women to thrive, succeed, and shine. Because when one woman rises, we all rise.

Midlife Crisis:

Signs and How to Prevent It

Midlife is often described as a season of reflection when individuals between their late 30s and 50s begin to evaluate their lives, choices, and future. While it can be a period of growth and new opportunities, it can also trigger what is popularly known as a midlife crisis.

Signs of a Midlife Crisis

- Emotional restlessness:

A lingering sense of dissatisfaction or emptiness despite outward success.

- Identity questioning:

Wondering about your purpose, accomplishments, or relevance.

Impulsive decisions:

Sudden changes in lifestyle, career, or relationships.

- Heightened anxiety or depression:

Feeling stuck or fearful about the future.

- Increased comparison:

Measuring one's life against others, often leading to frustration.

How to Prevent It

1. Practice mindfulness:

Stay present and grateful for where you are, instead of dwelling on regrets or fears.

2. Set realistic goals:

Focus on personal growth rather than comparing yourself to others.

3. Prioritize wellness:

Exercise, eat healthily, and rest well to maintain physical and emotional balance.

4. Seek support:

Talk to a trusted friend, mentor, or coach to process your thoughts.

5. Embrace change:

See midlife not as an ending, but as a fresh chapter filled with wisdom and possibility.

At Mindful Horizon Hub, we believe midlife doesn't have to be a crisis it can be a powerful turning point. By nurturing self-awareness, building resilience, and embracing authenticity, you can transition into this stage with confidence and renewed purpose.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

I would like to define Self - development as the intentional or deliberate action a person takes to become a better version of herself or to get better at what they do. It is you being mindful of your own growth (growth is a process, remember the adage that says "Rome was not built in a day") there is a quote I love so much and practice "Everyday do something that will inch you closer to a better tomorrow."- Doug Firebaugh

Self-development is a process, journey to becoming a better version of yourself mentally, emotionally, socially and Professionally. it's not a destination but a lifelong process of assessing your skills and improving on them or learn new skills that will enable you achieve your set goals and objectives. "be not afraid of growing slowly; be afraid only of standing still."- Chinese proverb

It is necessary for a woman to create a better and more independent future and this can only be achieved through continuous learning, personal growth and positive change. Self - development helps women take control of their own destinies. Self- development is a powerful way to breaking limits and boundaries creating a better future not just for you but the society. "Women are the real architects of society" Cher

Keys areas of Self Development:

Emotional Growth :

ability to identify and name your emotions as you experience them, how you can calm yourself by thinking before acting, capacity to understand and share the feelings of others(emotionally growing individuals can step outside their own perspective to see a situation through someone else's eyes, which is crucial for healthy relationships, ability to say "no", to communicate your needs clearly and respectfully to others, taking responsibility instead of blaming others or making excuses, ability to love someone and be angry with them at the same

Mental Growth:

It's about upgrading your brain's "hardware" and "software" i.e mastering your inner world of feelings, inner world of thoughts. Mental growth can be recognized through critical thinking, cognitive flexibility, curiosity, open-mindedness, problem-solving skills, wisdom, synthesis, improved memory and focus. Reading, taking courses, learning something new regularly.

Physical growth:

Developing healthy routines, taking care of your body through exercise, rest and nutrition

Social growth involves acquiring skills, knowledge, attitudes and values that allow a person to form healthy connections and become a competent and contributing member of their community. Social growth helps in building positive relationships and networking with others, improve communication, teamwork and leadership skills.

Professional Growth:

it is the intentional and self-directed ongoing process of acquiring new skills, knowledge and experiences to advance your career, improve performance and achieve long term professional goals. It is about you evolving in your chosen field

Spiritual Growth:

It is not about becoming more religious but becoming more awake, aware and aligned with your core values, beliefs and purpose. Practicing gratitude, meditation and prayer.

Why self-development matters for women

The modern world now offers wider opportunities in business, education, technology, and leadership. Technology is advancing and has made transactions better for a lot of businesses if they have Social media presence (you can seat at the comfort of your home and make sales of your products without renting a physical store) but if you don't have social media accounts you can't enjoy some of these benefits of technology.

A Secretary in an organization should be able to automate some task and facilitate communication through software for document management (like Google drive) amongst other tools. The CEO of a business should master leadership skills, financial and operational literacy, emotional intelligence, be a communicator, a diplomat and a resilient learner all in one. To take full advantage of these opportunities, women must invest in their personal growth.

Self-development allows women to:

- Gain new knowledge that help them to perform better in personal or professional life and enhance adaptability to changing job markets and technology
- Improve professionalism, leadership and productivity
- Handle change and challenges positively
- Build confidence and self esteem
- Gain financial independence and stability
- Balance personal and professional life

Skills for repositioning women in future.

1. Digital and Tech Literacy: In the modern world digital fluency is non-negotiable:

Digital Marketing and Search Engine Optimization (SEO). It is very critical for Professionals and entrepreneurs to understand how to build online presence, market services and optimize for search engines (One training you can get at a subsidized rate in Nassara Women Initiative Cooperative Society)

Cybersecurity awareness: Knowing how to protect digital assets is essential in an increasingly connected world.

Basic knowledge about Data Analysis and Visualization tools (like Power BI & Tableau) can unlock roles in high-growth industries like tech and data science.

2. Financial Literacy and Investing:

Financial independence is the bedrock of future security and autonomy. Learn how to master personal finance, increase savings and eliminate high-interest debt (Nassara Women Initiative Multipurpose Cooperative is helping its members to increase savings through its Necessary savings portfolio and eliminating high interest debt by charging 3% on loans acquired by members with Necessary savings) Learn about stocks, bonds, mutual funds, and retirement accounts to build long-term wealth. (Nassara encourages her members to buy shares) Financial and Investment knowledge empowers women to take charge of their financial destinies.

Negotiation Skills: Specifically, learn to negotiate salary, benefits, and contracts to ensure fair compensation and value for work.

3. Transitioning from an individual contributor to a leadership role demands a change in mindset and the development of new competencies.

Strategic Thinking: Cultivating the capacity to view the broader vision, anticipate industry trends, and design sustainable long-term strategies.

Mentorship and Sponsorship: Gaining the ability to guide and support others while also identifying sponsors key decision-makers who can champion a woman's professional growth and advancement.

Delegation and Team Leadership: Building trust within a team, empowering members, and mastering the art of delegation to achieve stronger collective results.

4. Communication and Personal Branding: Effective communication is not just about speaking or writing, its about ensuring the message is received and understood as intended. Personal branding is the strategic process of managing the perception of your identity and value, you build your brand through every single communication you have. From a quick email to a major presentation, each interaction is a brick in the foundation of your personal brand.

By mastering communication, you take control of your narrative and actively shape how the world sees you.

You can make progress in your self – development journey by practicing daily growth habits, weekly growth routines, keeping growth journals (focus on progress not perfection remember quitting is not an option), take virtual or physical courses

Self-development is a vital strategy for women who aspire to build lives of impact, success, and independence. By focusing on essential skills such as digital literacy, financial intelligence, strategic leadership, and effective communication, women can intentionally equip themselves to not just adapt to the future but to define it. The effort and resources invested in personal growth today become the foundation for limitless opportunities in the years ahead.

Delivered at the Annual Conference 2025

Themed: Stronger Together, The Power of Sisterhood and Scaling Your Business for Impact

Good morning, beautiful sisters, distinguished guests, and fellow changemakers.

It is such a great honor to be here today to share a message that is close to my heart, a message about unity, collaboration, and growth. The theme “Stronger Together” couldn’t be more fitting at a time like this, when women across Africa are rewriting the story of leadership, business, and impact.

When I think about the phrase “Stronger Together,” I think of sisterhood, not just as a word, but as a powerful force. Sisterhood is not about competition; it’s about collaboration. It’s about realizing that your success does not reduce mine it multiplies it. It’s about lifting each other up, celebrating one another, and building bridges instead of walls.

Throughout my journey as an entrepreneur from starting small with local products to building Bimkaf Palace Nigeria Limited, now a proudly exporting brand I have learned that no woman succeeds alone. Behind every milestone, there were women who believed in me, supported me, and reminded me that I was capable of more. That’s the power of sisterhood.

When we lift each other, we rise higher. When we share knowledge, opportunities, and encouragement, we build a network that cannot be broken. Sisterhood is our collective strength and together, we can achieve what no one woman can do alone.

But as we celebrate sisterhood, we must also talk about scaling our businesses for impact. Growth isn't just about profit it's about purpose. It's about asking, How is my business improving lives? How is it contributing to my community? How is it inspiring others to dream bigger?

For me, scaling Bimkaf has never been just about expansion it's about empowerment. Through our daily operations, training initiatives, and community programs, I've seen how knowledge-sharing and collaboration can transform women from survival entrepreneurs into global players.

Sisters, as we grow our businesses, let's focus on purpose, quality, and sustainability. Let's build structures that last. Let's mentor younger women who are watching us and waiting for our guidance. Let's make excellence, integrity, and innovation our identity.

Together, we can build a community of women who process, trade, manufacture, and lead with confidence and compassion. A community where every woman has the opportunity to thrive not because of competition, but because of connection.

In closing, I want to remind us all:

1. When women support women, nations transform
2. When we collaborate, we create capacity
3. When we stand together, we are unstoppable.

Let us continue to rise, build, and lead because truly, we are stronger together.

Land Banking:

The Smart Way to Secure Tomorrow's Wealth

In today's fast-changing world, one thing has never lost its value land. While people chase quick profits from trending businesses or unstable investments, the wise are quietly building wealth through land banking the simple act of buying and holding undeveloped land for future appreciation.

Think about it: every major city you see today was once a quiet, undeveloped area. Places like Lekki, Ibeju, or even Guzape in Abuja were once considered "far." But today, those who bought land there years ago are smiling to the bank. That's exactly how land banking works.

The beauty of land banking is that it doesn't require constant management. Unlike running a shop or daily hustle, your land quietly increases in value as new roads, estates, or industries spring up around it. It's like planting a seed and letting time water it.

For individuals who want to key into it, the process is simple:

1. Start Small:

You don't need millions to begin. There are reputable real estate firms that offer flexible payment plans.

2. Buy Smart:

Focus on areas with ongoing or proposed government projects, or where developers are moving toward. These places tend to appreciate faster.

3. Verify Documents:

Always confirm the title whether it's a C of O, R of O, or excision. This protects your future claim.

4. Be Patient:

Land banking rewards those who think long-term. Give it time, and your plot could multiply in value without lifting a finger.

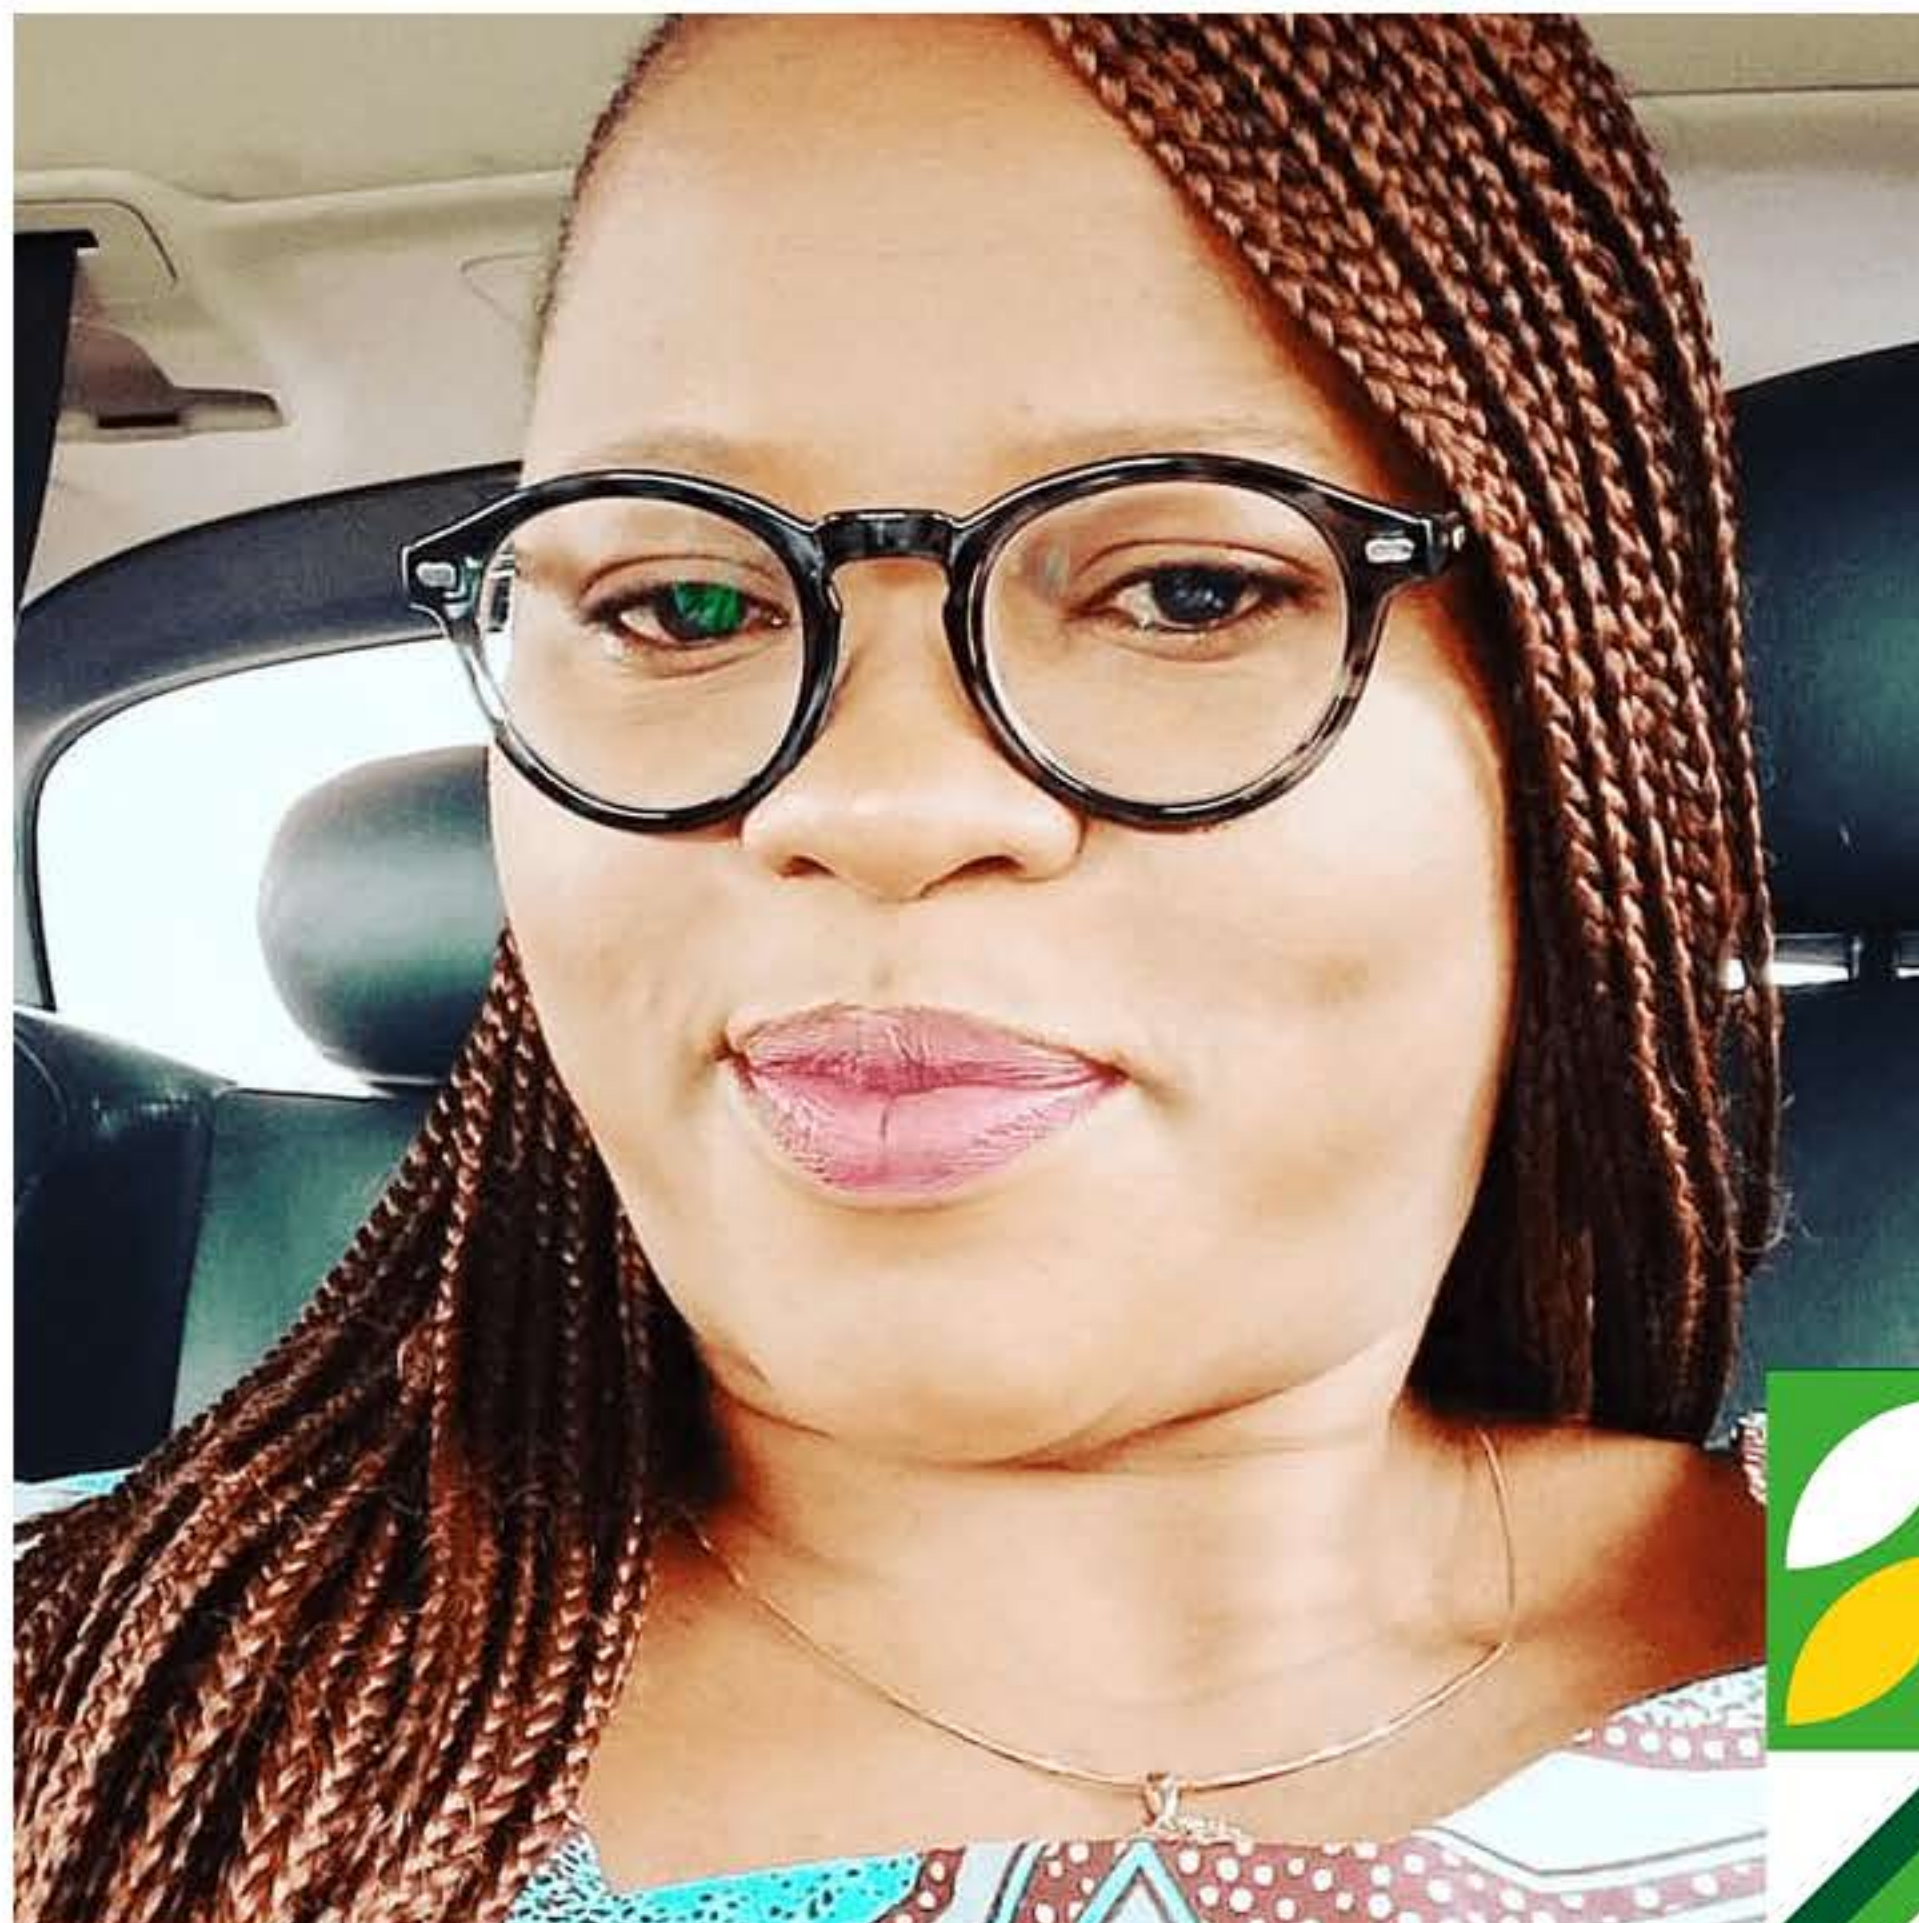

In truth, land banking is not just about owning property it's about owning the future. While others spend, you're saving in the most solid form of wealth. Ten years from now, you'll look back and thank yourself for planting that seed today.

At Webmark Estate Services, we've seen the power of land banking firsthand. our estates at Karshi (behind Navy Estate), Gurku (behind Mpape Hills and brekete Estate) Kuje by Dafara health Centre, and Lokoja by Immigration, all with complete documents and flexible payment plans, have all recorded impressive growth in value over the last two years. In fact, investors who keyed in early have enjoyed returns on investment (ROI) ranging from 60% to 150%, depending on location and development pace.

Each of these locations was once seen as “developing,” but today, they're fast becoming prime areas attracting both residential and commercial attention.

Don't wait to invest, rather invest and wait.
